Newcomer's Feast

Newcomer's Feast is a mini-event designed to welcome newcomers to the Barony, give them a place to ask questions and see what activities we have in Jararvellir, and let them experience on a small scale what is an event. The Feast will be held at the Pres House on Nov. 10 from 6:30 - 9:00 pm. There is no site fee and the feast fee is $5.

Stock Pavilion Schedule

We have our usual Wednesdays and Sundays through the end of the year. The official schedule can be found at:

<http://www.ansci.wisc.edu/Facilities/stockp.htm>

A & S (Roisin): Stephens Point sent an announcement/request about arts and sciences. They are hosting learning opportunities (and are looking for attendees/helpers). It was a bit vague.

Josceline: Nothing.

Knights Marshal (Stephen): We will be having regional practice on the weekend of KWCS.

Music (Nikolaus): We have the dance list for KWCS and will be able to perform all of the dances live. We are also planning a concert for Boar's Head.

KWCS (Marian): We have lots of pre-reg's for KWCS. I made a call for help with Porter and got lots of responses. Pre-reg's are due by the 10th.

Cordial Guild (Cianna): Guild is still alive and kicking. We generally meet on first Tuesday. We will be having potluck on December 2nd. Contact me for info.

Fighting Event (Æsa): Working on event that will combine eating & fighting (some sort of war college). Nothing concrete yet and suggestions welcome.

Tournament of Chivalry (Ed): With Coille Stormeil, hoping to hold a Tournament of Chivalry in Tomah on February 3rd. The Canton will take care of feast and porter. Their marshall will take care of the paperwork. They are looking to us for some staff assistance and financial backing for the site. They need to have a payment of $950 (700 for site plus 250 deposit) to Tomah by 12/1. Originally figured a $7 site fee. Did not factor in money for kingdom, so add $1 to site fee. Cnut asked if we can cover for a loss so Canton does not need to? (Agreed, but if we make a profit, we share with them) We would finance site, but they will finance feast. Proposal to make approval contingent upon getting kingdom approval for TOC. We should raise site to $9 to get a lower break even. [Meeting approved to host event and front site costs with site fee of $9 if we get approval] I will go back to HRM and discuss approval.

Coille Stormeil Anniversary (Ed): For their 25th anniversary event in April (20-22), the Canton would like permission to use the WW pavilions. Robert will ask Nordskogen to get their co-approval.

Newcomer's Feast (Reinholdt): Site costs already taken care of. Created $162 estimate for a 50 person feast. We may be able to half this because of the lower attendance. I will be cooking on Friday. [Meeting approved $100 baronial budget for this]

Demo Request (Reinholdt): we have a request a demo for a Cub Scout group in Madison, on Thursday the 16th from 6:45-8pm. Will post details on Jara list. They want us to cover how knighthood corresponds with being a Scout.

Directory (Paul): Let me know about any updates. I hope to get them completed this month. We will charge $2 for them again. Not sure about electronic format.

[We will discuss further next month]

CAM High Seat Basket (Eithni): At Boar's Head, there will be baronial changeover of CAM. I am putting together a gift basket for the new High Seat and am looking for donations for it.

Brewing and Vintning (Robert): We will be having brewing and vintning this month, but I am not sure on the date or topic yet.

Seneschal (Robert): Nothing. And nothing at this time on the WW site.

Gift Wrapping (Annora): Are we interested in doing gift wrapping this year? Tatiana will talk with B & N about what dates are available. Perhaps Dec 16?

Stock Pavilion Usage (Jois): the archers are doing Winter Shoot now so fighters and fencers can come in early (archers only need 20 yards).

The Newcomers Feast will be on Friday, November 10 at the Pres House. Setup is at 6:00 and the event will begin at 6:30.

Epistle from the Baroness

Greetings unto the Populace of Jararvellir!

Autumn seems to have passed most quickly this year. The trees dropped their leaves with all haste and a fierce wind blows cold across Northshield. November has come to the Kingdom and soon it will be proper winter.

However, even through the deepest frozen nights, we are warmed by the light shining from the Stellar thrones. One of the great joys of October was Crown Tourney, where the future of the Kingdom was assured as Hrodir Vigageirr Toreson fought for the honor of Giulia Isabella da Venezia and was victorious over all other combatants. His speech at court was unforgettable as he spoke of the power of Northshield coming like a storm, rolling and thundering across the land and drawing the attention of all the Knowne World. He set forth a challenge to the whole populace – to try some new craft or activity and so increase the glory of Northshield through your efforts. I look forward to trying my hand at some new activity and I hope you will join me in taking up His Highness' challenge.

While we hope to bring the glory of Northshield to the Knowne World, they will be coming to Jararvellir for the Knowne World Costuming Symposium November 24-25-26, 2006 at Edgewood College. We have over forty classes being offered, on topics as diverse as lace, hats, dyes, and wills. Preregistration is strongly recommended in order to ensure that you receive a symposium proceedings. More information can be found at the event website <http://www.students.uwosh.edu/~thens25/kwcostuming06/> or by contacting me directly. I look forward to seeing many of you there!

Looking further ahead, Boar's Head will mark my third anniversary as Baroness. I have greatly enjoyed my tenure and wish to thank you all for the opportunity to serve. Boar's Head will celebrate not only the end of Jararvellir's Baronial transition process, but Caer Anterth Mawr's as well. Baron Valerius and Baroness Alice will be stepping down after a long and successful tenure and they will be investing a new Baronial High Seat that day. I hope many of you will be able to be there to join me in congratulating the incoming and outgoing CAM Baronage and to celebrate Kristkindlmarkt with our good Cousins.

Yours in Fishy Service~

Eithní ingen Talorgain

Dear Trystan

Dear Trystan,

What is a household and how do I start one?

—An orphan newbie

Households are an interesting phenomenon- in these modern medieval times it is no longer the case that families breed and exist within the same isolated village for generation upon generation. While this throttles back the inbreeding a bit, it does leave a perceptible vacuum in the social lives of your average globe-trotting SCAdian. Thus the concept of the SCA household, offering community, a sense of belonging, and further sub-dividing the social framework of our society as a whole into groups that can distrust and make war upon each other. This innovation furthermore affords the advantage of allowing one to “pick one’s own family,” a huge bonus in light of the relationships many of us endure with the useless, revolting siblings and rarely-lucid progenitors assigned to us by the almighty. Anyway, in simplest terms, a household is an aggregation of individuals with mutually complementary skills and interests who agree, for a time, to pretend that they don’t despise one another.

There are several different sorts of households: There are fighting households (sometimes referred to as companies), which are usually made up exclusively of gentles with a martial bent. These households gain great advantage on the field of battle by practicing fighting alongside one another, and often attain admirable levels of expertise in melee combat. Their most noteworthy characteristic, however, is the fact that if a percentage of their membership did not drag their spouses into the SCA with them they would all starve to death at their first war and most would be naked.

There are households founded upon mutual, creative endeavors in the arts and sciences (which are similar to, but should not be confused with, guilds). These households pool their resources such that inexperienced and un-moneyed members may have access to the tools and talents of the older, more experienced members. This approach maximizes the advancement of skills and improves the quality of projects that the household embraces. Intelligent, sensible, and an unimpeachably fine idea. I know of absolutely no one who has actually done this.

There are exclusively social households, for those who are too, shall we say, careful to fight and too, oh... reserved to possess appreciable talents- or, for that matter, any kind of social skills whatsoever. Deplorable though they may be, these folk tend to stick together through thick and thin and share both good times and bad. If one of them contracts a venereal disease, for instance, then by gum the rest of them are liable to share it by week’s end.

Finally, there are the eclectic households, which try to draw members from each facet of SCAdian life: marital arts, various arts and sciences, service and the odd poxy peasant. These households are decent, in theory, as skilled technical assistance in an array of fields is available to each member. They DO tend to be better dressed, better fed, and have some of the best toys around. On the other side of the coin, each individual member has nothing in common with anyone else in the household and this can make effective communication quite challenging. Just ask the herald who informed the fighter that he had too many “conflicts,” had no business being “embattled,” and that he had a suspicious “orientation” anyway.

As to how one initiates a household, nothing could be simpler. Simply select one of the above varieties, concoct a household badge that exemplifies the mores and purposes of your household (see my own noble and storied household badge: A dead Frenchman, dormant upon a field of dead Frenchmen), and then gather to your cause and banner a group of easily lead sycophants whose chief recommendation is that they are significantly less intelligent and discerning than yourself. If you lack the leadership skills to pull this off, worry not. It is yet possible to found a household by coercing members of your own family into signing on. Should said family prove to be too small, you may have to reproduce a few times to round out your membership, though this stratagem may delay your ambitions by 15-18 years.

In service,

Thee Most Wyked Sheriff in all of Jararvellir, Trystan der Fackeltrager
